

ABSTRACT

Novel methods of treating a Fischer-Tropsch product stream with an acid are 5 disclosed. Such methods are capable of removing contamination from the Fischer-Tropsch product stream such that plugging of the catalyst beds of a subsequent hydroprocessing step is substantially reduced.